TO THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY OF

THE SEVENTH DISTRICT. On Thursday next, the second day of August, the independent voters of this District will again be called upon to choose a representative in the Congress of the United States, and before another issue of our paper that choice will inevitably have been made. As this, therefore, will be the last opportunity we can enjoy of addressing our readers before the day of election, we would here beg leave to submit a plain and candid statement of the history and events of the canvass now pending between Messrs Ashe and Reid. It is for the sterling Democracy of the District to form the ballot-box.

When, in April last, it was understood that, in consequence of ill health and other overruling causes, our late distinguished representative. Gen. McKay, could not again submit to a re-election, the holding of a District Convention was recommended, for the purpose of nominating a candidate, and that recommendation was responded to by the Democracy of every County in the District, in each and every one of which meetings were held and delegates appointed to the Convention. In six of the Counties, a preference was expressed-two naming Mr. Dobbin as their first but pledging their fullest support to the nominee of the Convention, whoever that might be. It is worthy of remark, before closing before stated, meetings upon the subject were strange way of showing it. publicly held in all the nine Counties of the District, not one syllable was breathed during the whole time against the expediency of hold-

In pursuance of appointment, the Convention met at Clinton, on the 31st of May last. We think no man will gainsay us when we assert that that Convention was composed of gentlemen of as high standing for respectability and intelligence as any in the district, Mr. Reid's sneering insinuations to the contrary notwithstanding. It is for the delegates and delegated them to say whether they will repu-Reid.

hasty-was the nomination of Mr. Ashe. His name was submitted to the democratic party of the district as that of a well known and tried and faithful democrat, and one in every way deserving of their support. The announcement was hailed by the entire democratic press of the State, without one exception, as a merited tribute, well earned by long public services; innumerable sacrifices for the good of the party, and a steadfast and devoted adherence to democratic principles. Scarcely had the Convention adjourned when it was attacked by the federal press of the district .-Its candidate was no sooner announced than he was pounced upon with more or less violence by nearly every federal journal in the State. It was announced in a leading federal paper in Fayetteville, the Observer, that there would be no whig opposition to Mr. Ashe. It was insinuated through a communication in the columns of that paper, and editorially remarked in other federal papers, that some democrat should oppose him. Who, amongst all the leading democrats of the district, do we it is well known, have long been rivals and find coming out in obedience to this federal dictation, and in opposition to the chosen can- However great our respect for Mr. Calhoun's dependence, and urging its recognition by the didate of his own party, and in defiance of its talents may be, we cannot consent to follow How did Mr. Reid's announcement first meet the light ?-through the columns of the Fayetteville Observer! This is a plain statement of the mode in which each of the candidates Calhoun, and an equal proportion of Calhoun's was brought out. We will insult the intellihe prefers.

Having thus disposed of the nomination, the objects of his attack are, Conventions and Mr. Ashe's Internal Improvement policy .-That Mr. Reid should attack Conventions is certainly strange, for we think the records the only one, held in either the County or the District of Mr. Reid's residence, within the last ten years, before which his name has not been brought. Why he has not oftener been the candidate of a Convention, may, perhaps, be more fully comprehended by reading the fable of the fox and the grapes. But it is unnecessary to go back further than the last year to show how utterly inconsistent is Mr. Reid's position, both in regard to Conventions and Internal Improvements, Mr. Reid was a delegate to the County Convention of New Hanover county, held in Wilmington in April of last year. He went not into a drawing room, or State apartment, pens and ink, bundles of state papers, and books on business. And there stood to receive us, to shake us by the hand, to bid us wel-" My embarrassment left me in a moment.

I had felt some little trepidation at the idea of being brought into contact with a man so high in station. His demeanor, however, soon dissipated this feeling. There was no state offered to carry the whole of the survivors to common controversy demanded, and might be performed by the plainest person; no court dress, no cocked hat, no sword and sash, no howing the knee, no kissing the hands, and moreover, no peer of the realm, or officer of the court, necessary to gain an introductiona black boy, to obtain his master's assent and to show us the way, seemed all that was exnot really look like an introduction to the head of a mighty nation Truly this American republicanism must either be considered as a great retrogression into the ages of social simolicity, when shepherds and farmers left their flocks and ploughs to command armies and govern States, and then returned to their avocations; or else it must be considered as a vast stretch into the future-the anticipation of something to come; the model of a perfectly new order of things. It is most assuredly not identical with what has been, and continues to be, in the Old World. Is this simplicity agreeable to nature, to common sense, to he truth of things? I confess, that these questions puzzled me at the time, and continue charm, about royalty, greatness, courts, presentations, and all the embroidery connected with these things, which make it difficult for one to think that there is no reality in them, that they can be done without. So much of power, of influence, of government, have stood connected with the old names and insignia of brones and courts, that many of us cannot dispossess our minds of the idea that there is these external accompaniments of States. "Here, then, we were, four Methodist preachers, and one merchant, snugly ensconced in a Government office, a sort of counting house, with President Polk, one of the greatest men, by position, in the world. Who could forget some of the documents which had issued from this centre of power-this beart of American d plomacy? Decrees hal been framed here which had thrilled through the body politic in every part of the world, producing mighty palnitations of heart, and convulsive throe Who could forget some of President Polk's "messages," directed from this very dest, and carried, probably by the black boy The policy and messato their destination? ges of this very Presiden: have produced strange emotions. They once filled Great Britain, if not with consternation, yet, at any rate, with indignation; they put the Parliament of England into a ferment, and called parties: they made it expedient to employ the liplomatic skill of Lord Ashburton, esteemed, at the time, one of the most sagacious peers of the realm; they led to treaties but little relished, and much condemned by some of the best sons of the British Empire; and they resulted in the political exaltation, strength, and aggrandizement of America. Some of those messages, moreover, moved the military forces of the Republic, by land and sea, to the invasion of Mexico, to the victories of Taylor and Scott; and led to the annexation to the States of a territory but little, if at all, inferior to the whole of Europe. These are some of the effects produced by the decrees sent forth from this place, with the signature of this plain little man. Things are not, then, to be estimated by the appearance. The room is common, but it is the centre of mighty torces; the President appears destitute of the forms of majesty, but possesses its reality; of Parollo Portica and Pancrazzia had been the missiles lying about are not artillery, shake the world "

What fact could show more triumphantly the success of this admirable system of finance? No system ever before adopted by the government has been so signally successful. Will this administration dare to attempt its repeal or material moification ? We shall see:

> The Sub-Treasury .- On the 30th ult., ex-Gov. Bouck squared up, as has already been nnounced, his accounts, balanced the books, and delivered over the keys of the sub-treasury to his successor, ex Gov. Young, who enered at once upon the responsibilities of his office. Some estimate of the amount of business done may be formed when it is known that from Oct. 16, 1846, to this date, one hundred and forty-six million six hundred and ixty-seven thousand five hundred and thirtyour dollars and seven cents have passed brough the custody of the sub-treasurer without the loss to the government of a single farthing. Immediately upon taking possession of his office, Goy. Young invited the corps of clerks that had been appointed by his predecessor, and who had become familiar with the business, to continue their situations, to which all consented except chief clerk Freeman Stanton, a fellow-townsman of Gov Bouck, who desired to follow his friend into retirement .--Whereupon Gov. Young tendered the post to Mr. Jacob Russell, who entered at once upon the discharge of his duties; rendered fam by three years application in the complicated service of the famous sub-treasury.

Progress of the Cholera.—The cholera had entirely disappeared from Louisville, Ky, last Thursday, and the Journal says:—

"We have good authority for stating that it will not again make its appearance unless we shall have continued rains during the summer months, which is hardly probable."

The cholera is abating at Lexington, Ky, also. From Friday week to Tuesday evening last, 20 deaths. The Observer, of Wednesday, says:

"We have heard of but a single new case of cholera in the city to-day, and nearly all of the old cases are doing well. The total number of deaths in the city up to this time, of cholera, is 167.

What a contrast does his position afford rights of the Southern States; and even then to that of Col. Benton. The following is that it would be fraught with manifold dangers part of the letter which relates to the Wilmot and difficulties, arising from the peculiar character of the people, and of the government which has so long subsisted in those provinces. Although living close neighbors to the States, the Canadians, both of the French and English parties, are essentially Europian in their notions of government. The other proof of insincerity, as I have already stated, is drawn from the fact that in my letter to Mr. Nicholson I took ground against the Wilmot Proviso, excluding slavery by law from the territories, and now believe that slavery, with or without that restric tion, will not be established there. And the wonder is gravely expressed how I could write that letter and the letter of three lines to ver wonder to me, how intelligent editors of public papers, whose influence on public opinion is so great, should venture thus to deal even with a political opponent, in utter disreyou, but it will many, who have viewed my course only in a party aspect, to be told that in that very letter to Mr Nicholson I expressit is forbidden by law, but because the colorit will therefore he seen on exami

In the view here taken, the effort to engraft ful, by way of encouragement, to young men the Wilmot Proviso upon an act of Congress, without means, but with energy and industry even if Congress had the requisite power, is a useless attempt to direct the legislation of the country to an object which would be just as certainly attained without it. Those who maintain the right of Congress to pass the Wilmot Proviso, must me not only the right of that body to establish governments, and to provide for the necessi ties of legislation over the public territory That subject was a good deal debated at the eign, said the British government to the colonies, and may legislate over you as we please. You are sovereign, said our fathers, and may sentation, is the very essence of despotism .-

Have Congress any power to legislate over the territories? I said in my letter to Mr. licholson, "How far an existing necessity may have operated in producing this legislation, and thus extending, by rather a violent implication, powers not directly given, I know nterference should not be carried necessary implication which produces it."

Mr. Madison placed the action of the old confederation in passing the ordinance of 1787; and if I do not misunderstand the late Mr Justice Story, he entertained similar views when he said that acquired territory "must be under the dominion and jurisdiction of the Union, or it would be without any government at all." If to avoid this latter conseuence Congress exercise a power not otherrise to be defended, that power should be limited by the necessity of the occasion which calls it forth. To preserve the peace of society-and to this ground of support we must come at last-there is no more need that Congress should conduct the Legislation of the Territories than that they should conduct the egislation of Virginia or of Massachusetts .t is enough that they should organize govinments, and then the necessity for their inerference ceases. And the result proves this; for the local governments do manage the internal concerns of the Territories in most cases, and would as safely in all, if not restrain ed by congressional interposition; and if Congress can pass beyond the power to organize governments, they may rule a territory at their leasure, and prostrate every barrier of freeom. If, as I have heretofore said, they can regulate the relation of master and servant that but their own will is to prevent them rom regulating the other relations of life-the relation of husband and wife, and of parent and child; and, indeed, all the objects which belong to the social state? There is no man who can show the slightest necessity for this interference on the part of the general government, and there is consequently no man who can show that it has any right to interfere on the ground of its necessary action. The people of the Territories are fully competent to onduct their own affairs; and the very first principle of our social system demands tha they should be permitted to do so. " Whichever may be the source." says Chief

Congress has justbelieve I may say in all-the speeches and essays in support of the power of Congress to legislate over slavery, after endeavoring vagueto deduce it from some clause or other of he constitution, the principal reliance is at last upon the authority of the few instances of its exercise to be found in the statute books. Authority and precedent have weight, and ought to have some weight, in doubtful questions; but I trust there are few to be found who are prepared to shut the constitution, and o seek in the practice of the government the foundation of its power; and more especially when, as in this case, the early legislative proceedings passed, as we have reason to believe. without objection or inquiry. They commenced by adopting the provisions of an ordinance of the old government to the administration of the new one, and thus impliedly recognising the exclusion of slavery, and seem to have gone on silently and unquestioned for years. have not had time to look back to ascertain the facts precisely; but I believe it will be found that this power has never been exercised where there was a united sectional opposition to it. Precedent may weigh much in the consideration of a doubtful question, where the whole subject has been maturely considered, and many minds have been brought to bear upon its adjustment. But as the foundation of political power a rractice thus introduced is of little value, particularly when t comes to involve grave questions seriously ffecting the Union. We turn then instinctivefrom what has been done to what ought to done-from the authority of precedent to the authority of the constitution. These are times which try such questions. Who can wonder, that with the views entertained of this subject by the South, an appeal should be made to the common character of the country, or that a large portion of our citizens uld be satisfied with no answer not derived from it? That what has been must continue to be, is a principle which has done more to which have operated upon political institutions. Those who advocate and those who oppos the Wilmot Proviso occupy very different positions. The former urge its adoption as a matter of expediency, in order to exclude slavery from the newly acquired territories, where it does not exist, and where it cannot be denied that this exclusion is as morally certain pair of unmentionables, and in the same a sil- by a learned gentleman to a learned constitupose this measure on the ground of its uncon- a Congress knife, and seventy dollars in cash. their rights and feelings. THE ORIGINAL DISCOVERER OF THE Genuine Townsend Sarsaparilla. Genuine Townsend Sarsaparilla.

Old Dr. Townsend is now about 70 years of age, and hag long been known as the AUTHOR and DISCOVERER of the GENUINE ORIGINAL. "TOWNSEND SAR-SAPARILLA." Being poor, he was compelled to limit its manufacture, by which means it has been kept out of market, and the sales circumscribed to those only who had proved its worth, and known its vatue. It had reached the ears of many, nevertheless, as those persons who had been healed of sore diseases, and saved from death, proclaimed its excellence and wonderful

We think, if the Sun is decided not to be a "nuisance" in Philadelphia, that even our contemporaries might circulate there unharmed by any one, though, as they are the organs of a "green age," they might come under the denomination of "unhealthy vegetables," especially in the "huck-leberry" time. Thank God, "the alien and sedition laws" are repealed. If, however, any of our federal contemporaries are desirous of reviving them again, we can only say that they will die suddenly with the "gutty gumbango," and be rejoiced over by the people as the last supporters of the "HEROIC AGE."

SOURING, FERMENTING, ACID "COMPOUND" OF S. P. TOWNSEND, and yet he would fain have it understood that Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Genuine Original Sarsaparilla, is an IMITATION of his inferior preparation!!
Heaven forbid that we should deal in an article which would bear the most distant resemblance to S. P. Townsend's article! and which should bring down upon the Old

S. P. Townsend's FERMENTING COMPOUND.
We wish it understood, because it is the absolute truth, that S. P. Townsend's article and Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla are haven-wide apart, and infinitely disrimilar; that they are unlike in every particular, having not one single thing in common.

As S. P. Townsend is no doctor, and never was, is no chemist, no pharmaceutist—knows no more of medicine or disease than any other common, unscientific, unprofessional man, what guarantee can the public have that they are receiving a genuine scientific medicine, containing all the virtues of the articles used in preparing it, and which are in capable of changes which might render them the AGENTS of Disease instead of health.

But what else should be expected from one who knows nothing comparatively of medicine or disease! It requires a person of some experience to cook and serve up even a common decent meal. How much more important is it val the persons who manufacture medicine, designed for

WEAK STOMACHS AND ENFREBLED SYSTEMS, should know well the medicine for the properties of plants, the

JACOB TOWNSEND has SOUGHT and FOUND the opportunity and means to bring his Grand Universal Concentrated within the reach, and to the knowledge of all who said it that they may learn and know, by joyful experience, its Transcendent Power to Heal.

Any person can boil or stew the root till they get a dark solored liquid, which is more from the coloring matter in the root than from any thing else; they can then strain this lusipid or vapid fiquid, sweeten with sour molasses. and then call it "SARSAPARILLA EXTRACT or SY-RUP." But such is not the article known as the GENUINE OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND'S
